The Right to Criticise Belongs to Two Only

(An Editorial)

Two Canyon citizens earned the right Monday night to criticise and/or applaud the financial transactions of the City of Canyon until next April.

J. Evetts Haley and W. A. Warren attended the budget hearing of the city commission and discussed items listed in the budget. The two men voiced their disapproval of some of the items, approved of others and asked questions about the plans of the commission during the rest of the fiscal year.

The commission tried to answer the questions and explain the necessity of the budget items. Apparently the explanations were satisfactory, because neither Mr. Haley nor Mr. Warren appeared to be dissatisfied with the budget as a whole, although suggestions for saving money were presented.

But one thing stands out. Mr. Haley and Mr. Warren are the only citizens in Canyon who appeared at the proper time to present their ideas and study the budget. They've earned the right to make further suggestions and criticisms.

No one else in Canyon has that right.

NO RATE SET AT HEARING

No tax rate for this year was set in the annual budget hearing of the Canyon City Commission Monday night because Mayor Hosea Foster was out of town. It will be set later, the commission said.

Two citizens, W. A. Warren and J. Evetts Haley, attended the hearing and studied the budget with the commission. The budget calls for general fund expenditures of $191,924.01 and interest and sinking fund payments of $38,297.

Rites Today for Mrs. B. F. Machen

Funeral services for Mrs. Lulla Martha Machen will be conducted at 3 p. m. today in the First Baptist Church by the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor.

Pallbearers will be Wilford Taylor, James Cole, Leroy Moreland, Jack Jennings, Bob Bellah and Wayne Wirt. Burial will be in Dreamland Cemetery under direction of Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Machen, 82, died at 3:30 a. m. Monday in her home. She was born July 12, 1875.

Mrs. Machen moved to Canyon in 1914 from Loveland, Okla., with her husband, who served as a Randall County Justice of the Peace for a number of years. He is presently Corporation Court judge for the city of Canyon.

Mrs. Machen was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Henry Prichard, Roy, N. M., Mrs. J. V. Bostick, Castro Valley, Calif., and Mrs. Sibyl Gardner, Amarillo; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

WATER USE STAYS HIGH

Use of water in Canyon continued at a fast pace during the past week as temperatures stayed near the 100 mark during the day.

The highest use was 2,239,600 gallons on Monday. Last Wednesday the total was 2,116,800.

Use on other days was 1,678,500 Thursday, 1,958,900 Friday, 1,839,900 Saturday and 1,883,200 Sunday.

The maximum daily production from the city's seven wells is 2.6 million gallons.

Heavy Fines Given For Gasoline Theft

Four Amarillo youths were fined and a fifth was ordered to a juvenile hearing for theft of gasoline and tools from a tractor and a truck parked near Estateland Center near Amarillo.

Fined $150 and costs, a total of $181.15, were Ben Herbert Little, 17, of 605 Madison; Lonnie Joe Malone, 17, of 909 Pierce, Eldean Jones, 18, of 506-B Florida, and Don Morton Carpenter, 18, of 411 Forest. In addition to the fines, the youths were assessed six-months jail terms until restitution for gasoline and one wrench is made to the owner, H. R. Fulton Sr.

The juvenile, a 15-year-old, was ordered to a hearing Tuesday morning with his parents by County Judge Roy Joe Stevens. He reserved judgment after the hearing.

The other four pleaded guilty to the charge of theft under $50 before Judge Stevens Monday afternoon.

Officers said the youths were joy-riding near Estateland Center Saturday night and stole gasoline wrenches and brake fluid from the parked vehicles. They scattered the wrenches along Western Avenue and threw the brake fluid away.

In the company of officers, the youths recovered all the wrenches except one and picked up the brake fluid.

Jones and Little were on leave from the U. S. Navy, and their leave was up at midnight Monday. Little was still in the Randall County jail Tuesday morning pending payment of the fine.

Open House Set Sunday in Jail

An open house in the new county jail building will be held Sunday, Sheriff L. S. Johnston has announced.

Hours for the open house will be from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. Conducted tours through the building will be one of the highlights of the event.

The building was completed last winter and has been in use since that time. It included the jail, dormitories for both male and female jurors, offices for the sheriff's department, justice of the peace and highway patrol, and a courtroom for the joint use of the justice of the peace and commissioners court.

The public is cordially invited to visit the building Sunday afternoon, Sheriff Johnston said.

K-State Teacher Comes to Canyon

Cecil E. Walton of Norman, Okla., has been appointed associate professor of business administration for the 1957-58 session at West Texas State College, according to President James P. Cornette.

Now assistant professor of accounting and business administration at Kansas State College, Walton has completed course work for his Ph.D. at the University of Arkansas. He lacks only his dissertation for the degree at Arkansas, where he earned his B.S. and M.B.A. degrees.

Walton served two years as part time instructor at Arkansas while working toward his Ph.D. For two year periods he was also assistant professor of accounting and economics at Arkansas State College and head of the department of commerce at Murray State School of Agriculture in Oklahoma.

The new professor served two years in the Air Force during World War II. He is married and has three children.

State-Aid Contracts Received

Contracts for state participation in purchase of right of way in Randall County were submitted to the commissioners court Monday afternoon by Chili Smith, district highway engineer.

The contracts cover Highway 87-60 from the top of Canyon Hill to Bell Avenue and Highway 60 from the traffic interchange just north of Canyon west to the Deaf Smith County line. The commissioners asked for an additional contract to cover the stretch of the expressway from the underpass to the top of Canyon Hill.

Smith told the commissioners that the contracts would become effective as soon as they are approved and signed in Austin.

In asking for the additional contract, the commission noted that a final award has not been made in the condemnation suit against Taylor and Sons. Neither Smith nor the commissioners knew if the state would participate in the final award, but they planned to ask the state headquarters for a ruling.

Smith told the commission that the contracts are set up for construction projects. The next project on the expressway will be the Canyon Hill to Bell project. At a later date, other contracts for right of way purchase further along the route will be offered, Smith indicated.

Under the law passed by the last session of the legislature, the state may participate in the purchase of right of way up to 50 per cent of the actual cost or 50 per cent of the "fair market value," whichever is less.

Smith said department regulations allow the state to either accept the appraisals of the county or hire outside appraisals. He said that outside appraisers would be hired for the section between Canyon and Amarillo.

Under terms of the contract, the county will actually purchase the right of way. After settlement is made and deeds have been turned over to the state, the county will be reimbursed for half of the cost.

Smith said that all details of state participation have not been completely worked out yet and that the policy from Austin changes daily. He said most of the changes are coming for the areas along the federal interstate system where the major part of the money is coming from the federal government.

Smith was accompanied to the commission meeting by Pete Steyner, district right of way engineer, and J. L. Payne, district right of way agent.

Businesses Get New SWPS Rate

An ordinance permitting a rate simplification for Southwestern Public Service Company was adopted this week by the Canyon City Commission.

The ordinance affects only commercial and industrial users. No change was made for residential users. Truett Hull, SWPS manager, told the commission that the new rate schedule would represent a saving for most commercial and industrial users.

Under the new schedule permitted in the ordinance, there will be only one rate for commercial users and only one meter for each place of business. The new schedule will reduce the operating cost of SWPS while lowering the gross income of the company in Canyon by about two per cent, Hull said.

The new schedule sets a minimum charge of $1.50 per month for users of single-phase electricity and a minimum of $5 for those who use three-phase.

The rates are:

5.2c per kwh for the first 100 kwh.

3.85c per kwh for the next 900 kwh.

2.0c per kwh for the next 6000 kwh.

1.0c per kwh for the next 12,000 kwh.

.75c per kwh for all over.

The new rate will go into effect when meters have been changed for business houses. All establishments which have had more than one meter will now have only one. Installation of the new meters will be handled by SWPS at no cost to the user, Hull said.

Hull said an explanation of the new rates will be made to each commercial and industrial user, probably when the meters are being changed.

The new schedule of one rate for all commercial and industrial users replaces eight rates now in effect.

Dr. and Mrs. Ishmael Hill and daughter of Lubbock were visitors in the W. H. Harden home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eugene Thompson and daughter, Gail, are attending the hardware convention in Dallas this week.

Property Owner Problem

The traffic sign symbolizes what property owners in Canyon need to do—Stop the growth of bindweed. The persistent weed is taking over many sections of town. Methods for getting rid of the weed are given on page 2, section 2.

City Begins Work on Suggestions From Citizens Water Study Group

Following the suggestions of the Chamber of Commerce citizens committee, the Canyon City Commission ordered the drilling of three test wells on the Mack Forrester property 12 miles west of town and three test holes at the west edge of town during a meeting Friday.

Drilling of the three test wells on the Forrester land was expected to begin Tuesday. The citizens committee suggested a test well on each of the three best sections of the Forrester land.

The commission ordered 120-hour tests on the three wells. The cost for the three tests will be about $1500 each. Big-T Pump Company of Hereford submitted the estimate. Bill McMorries, the city's consulting engineer, had estimated the test wells would cost $2250 each. His estimate was based on actual bids received in Perryton about two weeks ago.

The three test holes to be drilled at the edge of the city will be put down in Block 10, Bomar H addition, a block the city owns at present; on the west lot of the north half of block 11, McGee and Hutson addition, owned by T. A. Black; and at a site yet to be selected along the Santa Fe right of way.

The commission obtained an option to purchase the lot from Black if sufficient water is found in that area. A representative of the Santa Fe said permission to drill a test hole and later lease a well site could be obtained, but it would take about two weeks for necessary legal work to be completed.

Campus Boulevard

Workmen began cutting a four-lane street through the center of the West Texas State campus last week. The street will cut the campus from 23rd Street to 26th Street, and runs to the side of the fieldhouse and behind the Education and Administration buildings and Cousins Hall.

Redlegs Lead League by 1 Game

Picking up after a week's layoff when the Redlegs and Braves were tied for first and Dodgers and Yankees tied for second, the two games played Monday and Tuesday in the Randall County Little League upset the standings.

After Tuesday's game, the Redlegs stood in clear first place while the Yankees and Braves were tied for second and the Dodgers stood in third.

The end of the first half of the season's schedule comes Saturday night, and the second half begins Monday night. Games scheduled are Redlegs vs Braves Thursday, Yankees vs Dodgers Saturday, Yankees vs Redlegs Monday and Dodgers vs Braves Tuesday.

The board of directors of the league decided Tuesday night to offer a cold drink or snow cone at the concessions stand for all balls returned. During the season a number of balls fouled over the stands or out of the park have not been returned, the directors said.

The Yankees took fire from the beginning with five runs across in the first inning. Making the scores were Harry Lisle, Ronnie Brock, Wallace Busteed, Bill Phillips and George McBride.

The second inning was scoreless and the Yankees picked up one run in the third. Brock scored.

The Braves got one run in the bottom half of the third with Steve Langston making the trip.

For their turn at bat in the fourth, the Braves got two runs by Ralph Irlbeck and Jackie Clement.

Street Construction Starts on Campus

Construction of a new boulevard, widening of two streets and other street repairs were begun here at West Texas State College last Wednesday.

The boulevard, a four-lane affair, will extend three blocks through the WT campus from U. S. Highway 87 at the field house, to 26th Street on the east side of the campus at Cousins Hall.

A contract for $26,731 for the work is held by J. Lee Milligan of Amarillo.

The boulevard bisects the campus just north of the Administration Building. Two streets leading to the Administration Building from Fourth Ave. on the south side, are to be widened, and repairs on several streets on the campus will be made.

What with the Northern Democrats and Modern Republicans in Congress, the Supreme Court and the executive branch of the Federal government all busy looking out for the rights of the individual, the majority of the people in the United States are hard put to make out at all.

Although our nation was founded on the idea that the majority of the people should rule, with certain safeguards for individuals written into the Constitution, the modern-day concept is that the safeguards should predominate over the will of the majority. Surely we feel that the individual should be safe in his person and property from persecution by other individuals and government, too.

But if we lean over too far backwards in trying to protect the individual, we are in danger of falling on our backsides—and that's not much better than falling on our faces.

To illustrate the modern idea, you can pick out any of several things. Some of the recent decisions of the Supreme Court, for instance. Making law enforcement agencies open their files for the use of alleged criminals in trials is a good one.

The person on trial now has the right to prowl through the files, use what he wants in his own defense and, in the case of federal files on secret operations, use the rest maybe to the detriment of the nation. In Texas, the prosecution cannot introduce or even mention any previous convictions during the trial unless the indictment charges that the person on trial has been convicted before.

The Supreme Court decision can have the effect of tying the hands of the majority while freeing the accused individual.

Or the Supreme Court decision that ruling the majority cannot protect itself from communism because the people on trial for practicing the ideology weren't in the party when it was "reorganized" in 1945 or because the people they taught didn't actually go out and shoot at the president.

For other examples, take the Civil Rights bill in Congress. The administration has really been pushing the bill. Northern Democrats and Modern Republicans have teamed up in Congress to get it passed, regardless of consequences.

The bill is designed to protect the "right" of the individual to vote. At least that's what the proponents keep saying. But as an actual matter of fact, those same proponents will tell you that the bill is really a political move to gain the support of the "Negro Vote," a minority.

If the bill is passed, the individual right to vote will be so well protected that the majority might find itself tucked away in jail.

This liberal element, which cuts across the lines of the two parties, seems to be dedicated to providing every need and want of every person through government. Any idea a liberal politician has is presented with the comment that it has been demanded by the public.

Take the concept of federal aid to education. The administration backs it with statements about the great need and great demand for money from the federal government to build schools.

Yet when the governors and other officials of the various states are contacted, most say they can get along without federal money. The federal liberal keeps yelling about the great shortage of schoolrooms and the people on the local level keep building schoolrooms at a rate far in excess of the shortage. (Take Canyon's school district as an example. There's a shortage in the offing, so the local school board began construction to alleviate the shortage before it happens. The first step is a library addition to free a classroom that might be needed this fall. The next step might be an additional wing on the elementary school, or it might be something else. But the step will be taken before the shortage develops, you can be sure of that.)

It's hard for me to understand the way of the "liberal." He seems to think that anything which is provided by the government is free, yet he surely must know that everything must be paid for in one way or another. It's a well known fact that if the federal government puts up the money, it takes a lot more. And in addition, the cost includes a loss of some of the freedoms we have.

Consider a project which might be undertaken by anyone from an individual to the federal government. Let's say a swimming pool.

You can put a swimming pool in your backyard, in any of several ways. You can dig the hole yourself or have it dug. You can pour the concrete yourself or have it done. The cost will be only the cost of the material plus the labor involved. (If you have the work done, the cost will include a bit of profit for the contractor.)

A city can build a swimming pool. If it does, the pool's cost is greater. The city must not only build a swimming pool, but the pool must be bigger and more costly than one put up by an individual. The cost includes not only material and labor, plus a contractor's profit, but it includes a provision for paying officials of city government to see that the money is not wasted.

If a county builds a swimming pool, the costs mount. Not only must the pool be here, but all the county must be treated alike, and other pools built in other places. The amount of money spent grows higher and the cost for supervision of the money grows with it.

The same holds true for building swimming pools on a state level. The state must build pools everywhere someone wants one. By this time, an office is created to supervise building the pools and spending the money. Or if an office is not created, some existing office is expanded.

On the national level, the secondary costs of building swimming pools grows higher than the primary costs (the charge for materials, labor and contractor's profit). The federal government not only has a new bureau dedicated to supervising the spending of money set aside for building swimming pools, but there's a new set of officials to watch over the pools when they are finished, another to make sure that everyone gets to swim, probably another to teach people how to swim and another set to make sure that no one treads on the "rights" of anyone to learn to swim or use the pools.

Building swimming pools may be a silly example of what happens when larger units of government "provide" a service, but here's a concrete one. Randall County Precinct 1 just finished paving 5.3 miles of farm-to-market road southeast of Canyon. It cost $6576 a mile. The state let a contract for paving 15.67 miles southwest of Canyon around Buffalo Lake at the beginning of the month. That contract is just over $15,000 a mile. The only difference between the projects, besides the length, is that the caliche is free for the state job and the county had to pay for the caliche on the precinct job.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Gene Reynolds was the "boy chief of police" in Ranger during the oil boom. He was said to have been the youngest police chief in the nation in 1919 and 1920. Some 20 years later, he was holding a responsible position with a big oil company and he no longer had the zest for danger which had characterized him in his younger days.

When he entered the lobby of a big hotel in a Southern city, he was startled. Men and women were lined up on one side and, on the other side, was a man who had been drinking and in his hand was a six-shooter. This individual proclaimed, "I'm the toughest blankety blank in this state." Reynolds recognized him as having been the worst of Ranger's "bad men." The last time they had met was in the Ranger police station when the gunman had been given hours to get out of town—and he had "got."

The man with the six-shooter looked around and saw Reynolds, who thought, "He's liable to decide this is a fine opportunity to get even." (No longer an officer, Reynolds did not carry a pistol).

For a long minute, their eyes met and then the man with the gun turned around and said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I'm not the toughest man in this state; I'm the next to the toughest and I can prove it by him; he's the toughest" and he indicated Reynolds. The latter smiled and said, "Now, Bob, you've made your point, so I suggest you put up your gun." Which he did. "And then," Reynolds relates, "I took the first full breath I'd had since entering the lobby."

One of the tragedies of my early boyhood was that I wanted a turtleneck sweater but never got one.

Theodore Roosevelt did not want the vice presidential nomination. He referred to the office as a "sepulchre."

In horseback days in Arkansas, the standard greeting when a rider rode up to a farmhouse was "Light" (meaning "alight") "and look at your saddle."

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Possible Adjournment

Along about this time every year most Members of the House of Representatives and the Senate begin to make guesses as to the day on which Congress will adjourn. It had been the opinion of most Members that adjournment would come sometime between the 10th and 20th of August.

This continues to be the estimate of those with whom I have talked, and also my own. However, a matter has arisen which necessitates a qualification of that estimate. I refer to the action of the United States Senate with relation to the Civil Rights bill.

When the bill that had passed the House reached the Senate, it was generally understood it would be referred to the Committee on Judiciary for further hearings. However, a coalition in the Senate, made up of modern Republicans and northern Democrats, circumvented the ordinary procedures in the Senate and bypassed the Judiciary Committee.

They placed the bill on the Senate calendar to be debated and voted upon by the full Senate, without the benefit of committee hearings. This caused quite a furor among those who have always adhered strictly to the rules of parliamentary procedure. However, the modern Republican and northern Democrat coalition was undismayed. They are bragging about their fancy parliamentary footwork, and chuckling can be heard even from the White House.

The chuckles may be short-lived, because the Senate action on another matter is almost as explosive and controversial as any issue before the Congress. It is called the issue of public vs private power.

The bill on which the Senate voted was an act authorizing construction of the high Hell's Canyon Dam on the Snake River. A private power company is already building three small dams at this particular site.

The argument has been that the three small dams are not sufficient to properly utilize the potentialities of the River; that a high dam at this site will provide many more benefits than the three small dams and will make it possible to recover the greatest power-producing potentialities. This is stating the problem simply.

It is much more complex, but it would be most difficult to go into it fully in such short space. The point is that the two groups in the Senate, who got together to place the political Civil Rights bill on the calendar, are in direct conflict on the Hell's Canyon Dam issue.

The northern Democrats are for the high Hell's Canyon Dam to be built by the government. The modern Republicans are against the high Hell's Canyon Dam, and for the private power company building three low dams.

The result is that the happy marriage between these forces on the Civil Rights bill ended up in a divorce when the vote on the Hell's Canyon bill occurred. Now these two groups are feeling around over in the House of Representatives trying to find out what will happen to the Hell's Canyon bill.

It has been indicated that, if this bill is passed, it will be vetoed by the President. If the Civil Rights bill passes the Senate, it will be signed by the President. You can see there is going to be quite a bit of maneuvering in the last few days.

I might say I expect to be extremely occupied within the next few days, because I am on the committee presently considering the highly controversial Natural Gas bill. I am also a member of the committee that will determine whether or not the high Hell's Canyon Dam bill is recommended for Floor debate.

My office is on the third floor of the New House Office Building. The Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which is considering the gas bill, is located at one end of the hall, while the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, which will consider the Hell's Canyon bill, is located at the other end of the hall.

Both of these Committees will be in session at the same time, and the presence of a quorum in both will be of tremendous importance every minute. This means that I will use up a lot of shoe leather during these committee hearings, both of which will probably be concluded not later than July 10.

Thanks to a Friend

A friend of mine sent me the following story about confusion in Washington:

A visitor in one of the government buildings in Washington read the following on a door:

4156
General Services Administration
Region 3
Public Buildings Service
Buildings Management Division
Utility Room
Custodial

When he asked an attendant what all this meant, he was briskly told, "Broom closet."

Las Amigas Club Has Breakfast

The Las Amigas Home Demonstration Club had a "come-as-you-are-breakfast" June 27 in the home of Mrs. R. G. Costley. The day was the date for the regular meeting, and a business meeting was held during breakfast.

The next meeting is July 11 with Mrs. Don Olson.

SCOTCH JOKE NO. 9,843,249

"Two pennyworth of bicarbonate of soda for indigestion at this time of night," cried the infuriated druggist, who had been aroused at 2 a. m., "when a glass of hot water would have done just as well!" "Weel, weel," returned MacDougal, "I thank ye for the advice, and I'll no bother ye after all. Good night!"

REBELLION

A statistician took his children to the zoo one Saturday. Later he handed his wife this memorandum on the day's activities:

Dried tears 11 times; tied shoes 13 times; balloons bought 3 per child; balloons' average life 13 seconds; told children not to cross the street 21 times; children crossed the street 21 times; average number of Saturdays I'll do this again, 0."

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Bass grow fast only during summer and early fall — a 5 or 6 month season of abundant food. The major food is newly hatched fingerling bluegills in a bass-and-bluegill pond. A pond owner, therefore, must fertilize his fish pond all summer long to grow the most pounds and the biggest bass.

Fertile water grows green microscopic algae which feeds a heavy poundage of worms. The worms grow more bluegills. The bluegills would grow in summer too if they didn't spawn.

They do spawn, however, and the tens of thousands of little bluegills eat so much food that their parents cannot grow during the June-October period. (Bluegills grow larger at another season of the year — February to June).

Some pond owners stop their fertilization program to keep the bluegills from spawning so much. This is a bad mistake. Bass cannot grow unless they are well fed. A heavier poundage of bass will help prevent an overpopulation of bluegills — by eating more during the following fall, winter and spring.

This important "thinning" of the bluegill population begins in October, following their spawning season. It ends in early summer when the bluegills spawn again. Failure to maintain pond fertility throughout the spring, summer and fall results in low production of bass.

"The best ponds — the best fishing — requires good summer fertility. Next year's bass crop depends on it," says SCS technicians.

WELL, WELL

A woman was telling her doctor about her husband's delusion. "He thinks he's a steam radiator and he sits under the living room window all the time."

"Well," said the doctor, "you bring him in tomorrow and I'll cure him of that in no time!"

"No, no, doctor, we need the heat," replied the wife; "just take the pounding out of him."

FRANK

Father: "My boy, I never kissed a girl until I met your mother. Will you be able to say the same thing to your son?"

Junior: "Yes, Dad. But not with such a straight face."

Examine Gerard Case at Rotary

The jurisdictional battle over the case of Army Specialist William S. Girard was examined for members of the Canyon Rotary Club Tuesday by Ray Cullin, newscaster for Amarillo's KGNC radio and TV.

Historically, the policy of extra-territoriality has been followed in cases of crimes committed on foreign soil by American troops, Cullin said. The move by the administration to turn Girard over to the Japanese for trial represents a retreat from that policy, he said.

Because the case is now being heard by the Supreme Court, the final outcome of the policy to be followed will not be known until a decision is given, Cullin said. The appeal to the court was made by the government, when a federal district court in Washington had held that it was not legal to release Girard to the Japanese courts.

The matter of jurisdiction now hinges on whether or not Girard committed the crime while on duty, Cullin said.

Visiting Rotarians Tuesday included Neal Hutton and Herschel Thurston of Dalhart, P. B. Broadwell of Electra, Byron Reese of the South and West Amarillo Club, John Oakes of Amarillo, and Karl Ernst of Dumas.

W. B. and E. D. Persons were guests of Grady Persons.

The Bill Schuette family were guests of the Herbert Kuhlman family Sunday afternoon. The two families swam in the afternoon and had a picnic supper in the evening.

Pat Gerald of Sweetwater visited his parents, the Ed Geralds, last Tuesday.

4-H Girl Gives Roundup Report

Polly Cummins, delegate to the state 4-H Round-up at College Station in June, reported to the Wayside Home Demonstration Club at a meeting the evening of July 4 in the home of Mrs. I. F. SoRelle Jr.

She gave a general report on the activities of the round-up and then discussed the workshop on communications and principles. Miss Cummins enumerated on the rules to keep in mind when speaking:

To listen, to avoid hasty conclusions, to consider the other person's point of view, to keep your audience in mind, to get attention, to make the message clear, to allow for two way communication, and to interpret response.

The most important of these rules is to listen, Miss Cummins said.

Five other 4-H girls and Miss Cummins gave demonstrations on proper use and care of electrical appliances. Marylyn Wetzel demonstrated the electric mixer, and Nancy Schrib showed the proper care of electrical cords.

Use and care o fthe steam iron was demonstrated by Loraine Newsom; use and care of the corn popper by Frances Heisler; the after-school snack by Miss Cummins; and the use and care of the electric coffeemaker by Patsy Schrib.

The Wayside Club is sponsoring Miss Schrib as a candidate in the Farm Bureau queen contest.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. James Bible, Mrs. Willie Modisette, Charlotte Adams, Mrs. Leroy Roberts, Mrs. D. T. McGehee, Mrs. Floyd Adams, Mrs. Melton McGehee, Mrs. Paul Wetzel, Mrs. A. L. Clayton, a new member, and Mrs. Aaron Cummins.

Mrs. W. A. Doan Jr., Mrs. A. J. Newsom, the hostesses, Mrs. I. F. SoRelle Sr., and Mrs. I. F. SoRelle Jr., and the 4-H girls.

WHAT APPEARANCE?

"I'm not sure," admitted Lawyer Beagle, "that your grounds for claiming a divorce are valid in this state. It's all very well to say he's careless about his appearance, but it seems to me—"

"I don't think you understand," interrupted the client. "He hasn't shown up in four years."

DUE FOR IT

Boarder: "Hey, I found a nickel in my hash!"

Landlady: "Yes, I put it there. You've been complaining about the lack of change in your meals."

The word salary comes from "salarium" meaning salt money, since Roman soldiers received part of their pay in salt.

Female yard lovers are a special breed. On the plus side, they keep themselves active and trim. They get lots of sun vitamins and stay out of earshot of the telephone for hours on end. In the minus column, are leather-brown skin, battered hands, often a neglected house and the feeling that they look a sight most of the time.

Women's reasons for turning to yard work are as varied as the results they produce with their labors. Some simply use it as an excuse to live out of doors. Dressed in halter and shorts, they are less concerned with roots and flowers than they are with an even tan. These girls are usually blessed either with a green-thumb husband or a good yard man who is amiable about taking orders from the lady of the house.

Other feminine gardeners may not even like the sun. They want results. Outfitted in slacks or jeans, long-sleeved shirt, pagoda hat and heavy gloves, they work with a will to raise rare plants. One woman in our town who has the very prettiest yard of all is actually allergic to the sun. But with her, a beautiful yard is a necessity. It is her best means of self-expression. So, clothed in dark garments from head to foot, she spends her hours in the yard.

As for ourselves, we were born with two brown thumbs and couldn't make a careless weed grow unless the rains came to help us along. We like our exercise mild — in the early morning or late afternoon when the shadows offer a haven for lazy folks. But if the world had to depend for its blossoms on the likes of us, florists' business would flourish the year round.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

First Voter — I think it was terribly mean when Congress stopped sending us free seeds.

Second Voter — I think it was a waste for Congress to send us free seeds. They ought to plant the seeds and send us the vegetables.

Three at the Wedding Return to Help Planks Celebrate 50th Year

Among the 185 guests who were present at an informal open house June 30 to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Plank on their 50th wedding anniversary were three persons who attended the wedding.

Mrs. Claude Boker and Joe Mitchell of Arnett, Okla., and Mrs. Louis Edmondson of Tulsa, Okla., witnessed the exchanging of vows by Mr. and Mrs. Plank May 19, 1907, near Arnett, Okla.

Another special guest was Lee G. Oates of Amarillo, a former pupil of Mrs. Plank when she taught at the Valley View School near Arnett in 1905.

In addition, all the Plank's children were present to help celebrate their parents' anniversary. The open house had been postponed until all the children could be present.

The Rev. Doyle Ragle, pastor of the First Methodist Church of which the Planks are members, conducted a brief dedication service in the Plank home, three miles west of Canyon, prior to the open house.

From 3 to 6 p. m., guests were served at a table laid with a white linen and point Venice lace cloth over gold satin. The table was centered with a wedding cake which was flanked by silver candelabra with white tapers and white shasta daisies.

Presiding at the coffee and punch service were Mrs. G. C. Cooley, Mrs. A. R. Vincent, Mrs. Chester Null, Mrs. Jay Plank, Mrs. Earl Plank and Mrs. John Plank.

Friends who assisted with the party were Mrs. C. W. Samples, Mrs. Rae M. Walters, Mrs. Frank Begert, Mrs. E. R. Cleavinger, Mrs. Frank Phillips and Mrs. T. V. Reeves.

The table and entertaining rooms were arranged by Earleen Plank, granddaughter of the Planks.

The Planks' children and their families present were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Plank and three children from Hereford; Esther Plank; Mr. and Mrs. John Plank and five children of northwest of Canyon.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Jay Plank and Marcia of Denver, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dreiss and six children of Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.; and David Plank, graduate student at the University of Texas.

Other guests included Mrs. A. R. Vincent of Arnett and Mrs. G. C. Cooley of Pasco, Wash., Mrs. Plank's sisters; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Null, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Plank; cousins of Mr. Plank, Robert Plank and his niece, Isa Ruth Plank, both of Lyons, Kan.; and David's fiance, Betty Foreman of Austin.

The entire family and house guests were entertained at a dinner given by the Earl and Jay Plank families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Plank on June 29.

House guests at the Plank home over the weekend were Mrs. Margaret Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Null, Quin Walch, of Arnett and Mrs. Cooley.

DON'T BUY ANY CAR BEFORE YOU DRIVE A CHEVY . . . ITS BEST SHOWROOM IS THE ROAD.

Beauty in motion—Chevrolet Bel Air Sport Sedan with Body by Fisher.

Here's why Chevy's best showroom is the road!

Because Chevrolet's sleek good looks, its advanced features, are only part of the story. The big bonus is its remarkable roadability, the crisp precision handling that has posted an entirely new standard for cars in every price class. There are reasons for this, of course: Chevrolet's balanced weight distribution that takes excessive loads off the front wheels, the wide stance of outrigger rear springs, Ball-Race steering, spherical-joint front suspension. Sure, you can admire the sculptured lines in the showroom. But Chevy's a car specifically designed for beautiful motion—you have to travel in this one to know just how terrific it is. Try it, this week!

The Travis County grand jury touched off a rash of speculation by issuing summons to a new group of witnesses.

What they found out about the affairs of the bankrupt ICT Insurance Co. of Dallas and former Ins. Comm. Chmn. J. Byron Saunders will not be known until later in the summer when the jury reports.

Colorful ex-Ranger Manuel T. (Lone Wolf) Gonzaullas was the headliner witness. Gonzaullas once was vice president of a Ben Jack Cage enterprise, making purse-size alarms for women to summon help. He said he had nothing to do with ICT, also managed by Cage.

Others called to testify were Mrs. Mae Swaidner of Dallas, longtime secretary to Saunders; Paul B. Kelly of Austin, personal friend of Saunders; and Dick Mallard, Tyler CPA who was asked to bring Saunders' financial records.

Cage Promises to Return

Meanwhile, Ben Jack Cage, kingpin of the controversy, announced from Brazil that he'll come back to Texas "in about a month" and straighten everything out.

Cage, former manager of ICT, is under indictment in Dallas for embezzlement of the firm's funds. Governor Daniel had tried to get Cage forcibly returned to Texas for trial, but found the U. S. has no extradition treaty with Brazil.

Cage terms the Texas talk "hysteria," blames his successors at ICT for the company's collapse. But, he said, he plans to set up a corporation under which 75 per cent of his earnings for the rest of his life will go to repay ICT shareholders.

"New Look" Launched

Texas' long heralded "clean slate" Insurance Commission is finally a reality.

The "New Look" was officially launched with the appointment of Assistant State Auditor William A. Harrison as Commissioner of Insurance. Under the reorganization law passed by the last legislature, the commissioner is to be a $20,000 a year executive who will run the department.

Although it will be one of the highest-paid posts in state government, Harrison is serving without pay. Through oversight the legislature neglected to make the commissioner's salary effective until Sept. 1.

Harrison, who was named "temporarily" until September, is reportedly serving "on faith" that the Legislature will make some adjustment when it next meets.

Teacher Money Assured

Teachers, who've had state officials scraping and scrambling for months, are now apparently assured of receiving their $399 a year raise beginning next fall.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled that $4,000,000 can be made available for this purpose on Aug. 22. A bill authorizing transfer of this amount from the permanent school endowment fund becomes effective 90 days after adjournment, said Wilson.

Earlier, doubts had been raised whether wording of the bill would permit the transfer before the end of this fiscal year, Aug. 31.

First with the Worst

Cost of Texas' severe weather damage in 1957 will probably top $100,000,000, says William L. McGill. Official total is already more than $91,000,000.

McGill, director of Texas Civil Defense and Disaster Relief Headquarters, said this year has brought the "most far-reaching and widespread destruction the state ever has known."

Texas always has had the "dubious distinction" of leading the nation in catastrophies he said, recalling the Galveston flood, New London school explosion, and the Texas City disaster.

But 1957, he recounted, brought, in just four months, 120 tornadoes that hit the ground; major floods in 13 river basins; and, for good measure, the worst blizzard in history in the Panhandle.

As McGill spoke at a statewide Civil Defense Advisory Council conference in Austin, hurricane warnings were posted on the Gulf Coast. "That," said McGill, "is all we needed."

Highway Plans Explained

State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer is trying to soothe riled East Texans who learned that a proposed new interstate highway would bypass them.

Plans show that "Interstate 2," designed to extend from Shreveport, La., to El Paso, would miss both Wood and Upshur Counties.

Greer promised that present U. S. Highway 80, which runs through those areas, will be improved to a 4-lane artery. It will serve the purpose of the area better than the controlled-access interstate road which does not permit easy cross-traffic, said Greer.

Short Snorts

State Supreme Court paid tribute to its "walking dictionary," Legal Secretary Francis J. Renz, who retired after 38 years service with the high court.

Maria Ruth Alejandro of San Antonio and Glenn Lightfoot of Gholston were certified by the governor's office as Texas' nominees for the Young American Medal for bravery. Both are credited with heroic rescues at the risk of their own lives.

No point in trying to avoid being fingerprinted. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has ruled officers may use "reasonable necessary" force to fingerprint a person legally arrested.

Employment by new Texas businesses dropped 3,656 during May, reports the Texas Employment Commission. But the number still was considered fairly stable — 107 new firms hiring 1,552 people.

Bindweed Infestation Dangerous Inside City

It's a wonder that any farmer dares to visit Canyon.

That's not because Canyon is not a friendly town, nor because he can't get what he needs from the stores here. Nor is it because the farmer is not welcome.

It's simply because Canyon is infested with bindweed, the scourge of crop farmers. In Canyon bindweed grows in lawns, on vacant lots, in the right of way alongside unpaved or gutterless streets, in the alleys, on parkways—and the stuff is even growing through the cracks between the asphalt and concrete curb and gutter on paved streets.

There's plenty of bindweed growing in silt collected in gutters around town. There's so much bindweed in Canyon, that the town could easily be nicknamed the "City of the White Flower."

Just what is bindweed and why is it so dangerous?

The extension service, in a report of bindweed control in the Panhandle describes the weed as a "hardy, climbing perennial with arrow-shaped leaves and trumpet-shaped flowers. The plant is a trailing vine that grows along the ground, but climbs readily if supported. The stems may be as long as three feet. The leaves are pointed at the tip and have large pointed basal lobes; however, their shape and size may vary considerably.

The weed is sometimes called possession vine, or wild morning glory. For those who do not know exactly what the plant looks like, the simplest description is that it looks like morning glory, and anywhere morning glories are growing that they weren't planted is most likely to be the spot where bindweed is running rampant.

Just why is bindweed dangerous?

County Agent John Brazzil said that bindweed will downgrade cropland to pasture land within a few years if it is not controlled. Left to itself, bindweed could change Randall County from an agricultural area with a multitude of crops to ranching area.

"When bindweed is in a cultivated field, it means the field is out of crop production," Brazzil said. "It has extensive roots, comes up ahead of planted crops and absolutely starves the crops out."

Bindweed, a native of Europe, was introduced into North America along the Atlantic seaboard and was reported in Virginia as early as 1739. It spread westward across the United States, and by 1900 it was established in most of the western states.

As of the spring of 1955, the weed was on 32,000 acres in the Panhandle on 28 per cent of the farms and was threatening crop production on over 1½ million acres of cultivated land.

Getting rid of the noxious weed is a complicated, expensive process for farmers. When the infestation gets very high, farmers must forget about trying to eradicate it, and must learn to live with it, Brazzil said.

It is in the best interests of the whole farming area for the people of Canyon to get busy killing bindweed where it grows in town.

The simplest method of killing bindweed is through the use of soil sterilants. Fairly expensive, the method is the surest way, but it has its drawbacks.

One application of soil sterilants usually does not completely eliminate the bindweed. Spot-treatment is needed about two years after the first treatment. The soil sterilant must be spread at least 10 feet beyond the edge of the patch in order to kill all of the roots.

And soil sterilants may kill the ground for as much as five years—nothing will grow in the area.

Another method, not so effective as sterilants, is intensive cultivation. Bindweed growing in a good lawn can be controlled by spraying with 2-4D and regular mowing. That method runs as high as 90 per cent effective.

Another is cultivation of the area without spraying. Gardeners using the method must chop the weeds early in the spring when they show up, and keep chopping them at two to three week intervals. After about three years, around 70 per cent of the bindweed will be killed.

Once bindweed gets in the ground, it is there forever for all practical purposes. Seeds can lay in the ground for a tremendous time and still sprout. Brazzil said some seed has been kept at experiment stations for 40 years, and still sprouted.

Experiments at the Bushland Experiment Station showed that after bindweed growth has been eradicated, an average of 162 seeds per square yard of soil six inches deep could be found. And that was after four years of work killing the weed.

In the fifth year, an average of two seedlings per square yard came up and had to be controlled. In Kansas, bindweed seedlings emerged on land 30 years after the original infestation had been controlled.

Seed samples taken at Bushland showed over one-half million seeds per acre were produced on wheat lands and up to 4½ million seeds per acre in road ditches.

The seed is transported mechanically, for the most part. Combines which work in infested fields carry it to clean fields. Crop seed from infested areas planted in clean areas spreads bindweed. Infested feed fed to livestock puts bindweed in new areas.

Automobiles can pick up a bit of mud with bindweed seeds inside and deposit them where they shouldn't be, and therein lies the thing Canyon's people can do to help the farmers of the county.

Canyon property owners must control their bindweed themselves. If the bindweed is in its first year, it can be killed by pulling the seedlings and runners before they have a chance to make seed. Young seedlings develop a deep taproot and in about 11 weeks spread radially by producing lateral roots. New plants are produced from buds on the lateral root, and one seedling may spread to a 10-foot patch of bindweed in one season.

After the plant grows one summer and lives through the winter, it becomes a perennial. The roots become extensive and can support the plant for a long period. In the Panhandle, the roots extend to the caliche. In deep soils, the roots have been found at depths of more than 20 feet.

Soil sterilants which have been found effective for bindweed control are sodium chlorate, Concentrated Borascu, Atlacide, Polybor Chlorate, and Karmex W. All are not too expensive for use on small plots, but some are dangerous for amateur use.

Sodium chlorate is especially dangerous, and should not be used without the advice and help of someone who knows the dangers of the chemical. Organic matter sprayed with sodium chlorate is highly inflammable upon drying. Clothing impregnated with sodium chlorate ignites easily, and animals can eat enough of the chemical to kill themselves.

Atlacide is a chlorate-type sterilant and is less hazardous than sodium chlorate but the same precautions should be used for it.

Karmex-W should be applied only to areas where a long period of soil sterility would not be objectionable. An area at the Bushland station treated with Karmex W in 1951 is still sterile.

Anyone who has bindweed infestation can obtain help in getting rid of the weed by contacting the county agent.

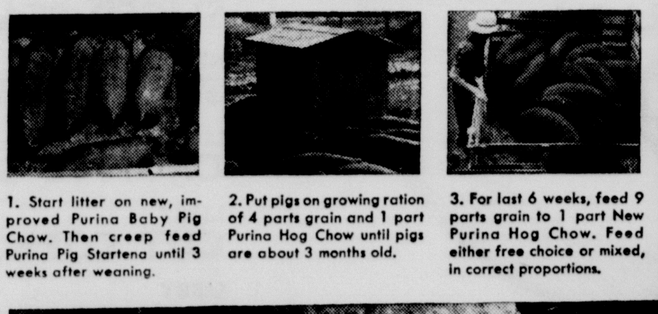
HERE IS THE NEW PURINA HOG PROGRAM



1. Start litter on new, improved Purina Baby Pig Chow. Then creep feed Purina Pig Startena until 3 weeks after weaning.

2. Put pigs on growing ration of 4 parts grain and 1 part Purina Hog Chow until pigs are about 3 months old.

3. For last 6 weeks, feed 9 parts grain to 1 part New Purina Hog Chow. Feed either free choice or mixed, in correct proportions.

Now...market hogs in 4⅔ months

New Purina feeding program weans pigs at six weeks.... grows pigs to 190 lbs. in 4⅔ months... cuts feed costs 4%... 1 lb. of pork for every 3.26 lbs. of feed, from weaning to market... conditions sows faster for next farrowing.

Every year more proof piles up that hogs should be fed according to age and weight requirements. Young pigs use feed differently than do older hogs. They need more protein... more vitamins... more of the expensive parts of the ration. But, as pigs grow, they become more efficient users of carbohydrates—the less costly part of rations. The proportion of cheaper carbohydrates can be rapidly increased.

Tests at the Purina Research Farm showed that this new program cut feed costs an average of 4% below any previous Purina Program... produced each pound of pork on only 3.26 lbs. of feed from weaning to market. It also gave sows the chance to recover faster from farrowing and nursing. Sows were ready to breed again in less time than when pigs were weaned at 9 weeks.

Improved Purina Hog Chows Make Program Click

Purina Baby Pig Chow and Pig Startena, the famous Fast-Start Twins, have been further improved to take advantage of the newest research findings. Purina Hog Chow has been improved to the point where you may now use 33% more grain during the last six weeks than on previous Purina Hog Programs.

Be sure to feed right... follow the recommended steps closely. The fast gains, early weaning, and increased efficiency of this new Purina Hog Program can be yours when you feed these high-quality Chows in the way research has proved they should be fed for top results.

Mills of Oklahoma City, Okla., in a double-ring ceremony at the Assembly of God Church. The Rev. A. J. Pettit, assisted by the Rev. Mills, father of the bridegroom, read the service. Baskets of pink gladioli tied with pink ribbon and candelabra decorated the church.

Organist, Archie Phelps of Tacoma, Wash., played the traditional marches and accompanied Arlene Johnson, who sang "Oh Promise Me" and Glynetta Johnson, who sang "Because." The two girls sang "Submission" during the prayer.

Attending her sister as matron-of-honor, Mrs. James Rawton wore a pink crystalline dress with a rose cumberbund. She carried a pink fan pinned with carnations.

The bride's other attendant was Mrs. Phyllis Palser and she wore a green crystalline dress and carried a green fan with white carnations.

The flower girl, Anita Godfrey, and the train bearer, Janita Tippery, wore identical dresses of pink crystalline. Ring bearer was Dennis Pearson.

Best man was Earl Gene Peppard, brother of the bride. Groomsman was Orville Water Mills Jr., brother of the bridegroom. Serving as ushers and lighting the candles were Joe Mills, brother of the bridegroom, and Wayne Pettit.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a creamy ivory, slipper satin gown with a sweetheart neckline decorated with seed pearls. Her bouquet was an orchid on a white Bible.

A reception in the youth hall of the church honored the bridal party. The three-tiered cake was served by Arlene Johnson and Glynetta Johnson served punch. The table was laid with a lace cloth over green and decorated with pink and white flowers. Crystal candelabra and appointments were used.

Mrs. Robert Burgess registered the guests, and assisting in the house party were Mrs. Grady Crowley and Mrs. Opal Pearson.

For the wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride wore a beige linen suit with beige accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Canyon High School and for the past two years has attended Southwestern Junior College at Waxahachie, Texas. The bridegroom is a graduate of Capitol Hill High School, Oklahoma City, and a graduate of Southwestern Bible College, Waxahachie. Mr. Mills will attend seminary in Fort Worth next year.

After July, the couple will be at home in Waxahachie.

A BARGAIN

"Why did you give the checkroom girl a dollar tip?"

"Look at the hat she gave me!"

Cherry Blossoms

BY DOVIE CHERRY

All indications are that Canyon will have its share of fair and lovely brides this summer. And with each ceremony, there is connected a lot of tradition, a lot of etiquette polishing, a lot of superstition, believed or not, and for the father involved, a lot of pop's money.

There are old-sayings galore about weddings and many I learned recently in articles which appeared in various newspapers over the Panhandle.

There's the rhyme, "To change your name and not your letter, you'll marry for worse and not for better."

There's a rhyme for choosing the color of wedding dress:
"If you marry in green,
You will live like a queen;
If you marry in red,
You'll wish yourself dead;
If you marry in brown,
You will live out of town;
If you marry in black,
You will want to turn back;
If you marry in gray,
Your love will go astray;
If you marry in pink,
Your love will sink;
If you marry in yellow,
You'll be ashamed of the fellow;
If you marry in pearl,
You will live in a whirl;
If you marry in blue,
Your love will be true;
If you marry in white,
You are sure to be right."

There's the old saying warning not to cry on your wedding day and not to break anything for that will result in a quarrel with your mother-in-law and your husband will side with her.

There's superstition even about the bride's stockings. Before she puts on her stocking she should toss one over her left houlder and if it lands in a straight line her luck will be continuous.

Oh, and don't dare keep any of the pins from the bridal array. Scatter them on the floor for the bridesmaids to pick up. The one who doesn't pick up any will be an old maid.

There's a lot more than an old garter and a silver coin to be worn by the bride. If she wants freedom from all her troubles, she should carry a bit of thread and a pinch of salt in her pocket during the ceremony and throw them away and with them her troubles.

Remember the old saying, "Step on a crack and break your grandmother's back?" Likewise the bride should stand in line with the cracks in the floor during the ceremony, not at right angles to them.

An old saying tells the bride that if she sees a flock of birds on her way to the church she will have as many children as there are birds in the flock.

Want to get along with your mother-in-law? Have her break a cake or loaf of bread over your head as soon as you move into your new home.

Who will rule the roost? According to one old saying, at the reception the bride should have a drink of water before her husband so she will be the one who rules.

I've often wondered why the tradition of the bridegroom carrying the bride over the threshold. It seems this is to prevent her from stumbling, which is very bad luck.

Some say there was an old custom of the bride jumping over a broomstick before she entered her new home so she wouldn't be hoodoed there. I've never heard this one, but my grandmother told me when I was small that I must never let anyone sweep under my feet, for that would cinch my fate as an old maid.

But, that can't ever be so, because it's the girl who gets married who never lets any old dust gather under her feet.

And about the wedding ring. The diamond ring, I read recently, is the one that will bring the greatest happiness. Pearls are the emblems of tears, but emeralds signify success in love.

It goes on and on. And it is all very fascinating.

☆ ☆ ☆

While on the subject of brides, I would like to mention an idea for a courtesy to give the bride and bridegroom which I read somewhere and thought was mighty nice.

The suggestion was made that a friend wishing to do something extra nice and unusual for the newlyweds could freeze the remainder of the wedding cake for the couple to eat on their first wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Taylor returned Saturday after two weeks of vacationing in states of Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, California, Utah, Wyoming and Colorado.
